INFORMATION ASSURANCE

The evolution of Information Security data, in all its various forms, represents the lifeblood of your organization. The information you count on for daily operations can quickly become a liability if compromised. In today's environment, the ability to defend information and information systems is integral to success.

IDENTIFY THE NEEDS

Taking steps to systematically ensure the confidentiality, integrity, availability, and non-repudiation of data is no longer optional and requires focused efforts. Evolver has subject matter experts to help your organization identify the vulnerabilities and gaps in your protection.

REACTIVE VS. READY

Not so long ago, organizations spent most of their time, effort and money creating plans designed to react to assaults on their data. Evolver provides the technical acumen and process development necessary to move maturing organizations from a reactive mode to one of sustainable readiness. By implementing best of breed policies and controls, Evolver will help you address the availability and movement of information within your Enterprise.

THE FIRST STEP

Although Information Assurance can seem daunting, it should be neither ambiguous or cost-prohibitive. On the contrary, implementing the right mix of technology and processes into your IA landscape should provide your organization with an immediate return-on-investment when considering the real costs of having your data and mission compromised. Having Evolver provide a Vulnerability Assessment is the first step to ensuring that your unique business concerns are addressed, allowing you to maximize the value of your business information.

That's Progress... THAT'S EVOLVER
